TODDLER WALK SCAVENGER HUNT

Things on our street.

Three things to find, and if you need them, some talking points to keep them going.

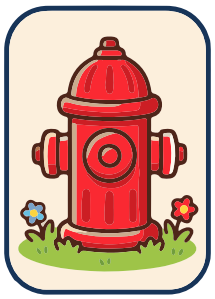

A mailbox

— Which mailbox on this street is the biggest? Let's go check.

— Is anybody's little red flag up today?

— Some mailboxes are a slot in the door. Think we'll find one?

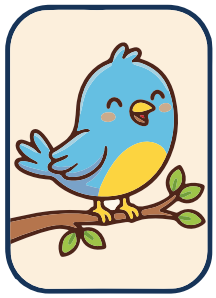

A fire hydrant

— How many can we count before we get home?

— Why do you think they put one right there?

— What color do you think the next one will be?

A bird

— Where is that one going? Should we follow it?

— Can you find one sitting still and one flying?

— What sound is it making? Can you say it back?

Two more, if you want the walk to continue further.

Things that move.

Three things to find, and if you need them, some talking points to keep them going.

A red car

- How many red cars before we get to the corner?
- Where do you think that one is driving to?
- Which is faster, a red car or a blue one? Let's watch.

A big truck

- What do you think is inside? Should we guess?
- Is that truck bigger than our car? Way bigger?
- What sound does it make when it starts up?

A doggy

- Which house do you think that doggy lives in?
- Is this doggy bigger or smaller than you?
- Should we ask the owner what its name is?

Colors everywhere.

Three things to find, and if you need them, some talking points to keep them going.

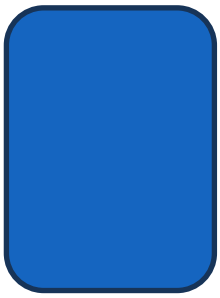

Something red

- Can you find something red that's bigger than you?
- Is the next red thing going to be a car or a flower?
- Do you think there are any red birds around here?

Something yellow

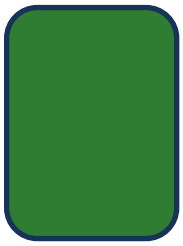

- Yellow likes to hide in signs. Where should we look?
- Can you find two yellow things before the corner?
- What's the largest yellow thing you can think of? A school bus?

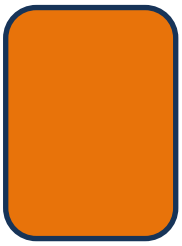

Something blue

- Does the sky count? What else is blue down here?
- Who on this street is wearing blue?
- Can you find a blue thing that moves?

Two more, if you want the walk to continue further.

Houses and yards.

Three things to find, and if you need them, some talking points to keep them going.

A garage door

- How many garage doors on this street? Let's count.
- What do you think people keep in there?
- Which one is the biggest? Should we go find it?

A flower

- What color is that one? Can we find another like it?
- Which yard has the most flowers on our whole street?
- What do you think it smells like?

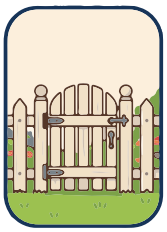

A white house

- Is our house white too, or a different color?
- How many windows does that one have? Let's count.
- If you could paint it, what color would you pick?

Walks after dinner.

Three things to find, and if you need them, some talking points to keep them going.

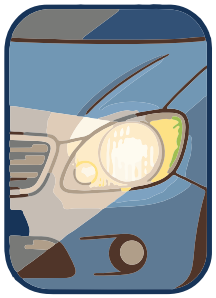

A window with a light on

- What do you think they're doing in there? Eating dinner?
- How many houses have their lights on already?
- Can you find a window with a TV glowing blue?

A street light

- They turn on all by themselves. Can we find any that haven't turned on yet?
- Can you find our shadow under it? Long or short?
- Where's the next one? Let's walk all the way to it.

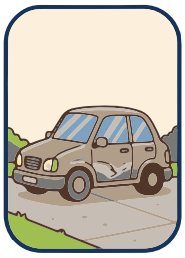

Car headlights

- Should we count the cars?
- Are those headlights white or yellow?
- Which car do you think will turn first?

Two more, if you want the walk to continue further.
